

OFFICIAL PRESS RELEASE 26th October 2014

For Immediate Release:

CLASS CHANGES

A change has taken place to the following classes in this years event

- Womens Class

Due to varying level of competitors in this class a decision has been made to discontinue the stand-alone womens class.

With competitors showing interest ranging from World Enduro Riders, Australian representatives in International Trials events as well as Clubman Level and Novice riders it is more advantageous to place these riders in a class more appropriate and directly inline with their competitive standings.

Under the current format every competitor can only nominate one class, so competing in the women's class they would not be eligible for outright positions.

In a positive move to promote and increase women competing at Wildwood, an additional $250 will be paid to the 1st woman home in Expert, Over 40 and Clubman.

The change brings a much better format and they will now enter the race on equal terms with the men, showcasing the strength of the individual women competing in these classes.

NB refer to Supp Regs, to be eligible for outright prize money a competitor must be entered in Pro Class Prize money is not awarded to any DNF Competitors of any class.*

- Trials Class

The Trials Class has been removed from the Extreme Enduro category.

Under the current format a Trials class rider was only eligible for class victory, they are now open to enter all classes with the opportunity to compete for outright positions if entered in Pro Class.

Trial riders have shown they are capable of competing at the top level and this brings a welcome change to the existing format.

- New Class – Expert over 35

Expert Over 35 class has been added to the 2014 event

The prize money for this new class will match the Expert and Clubman prize money

1st $1000 2nd $500 3rd $300

The current 35 year old and older expert riders have already been moved across

- International Riders
